This is the view from inside our rig at Neys Provincial Park.

The sun shone most of the day.

We went for walks through the campsites and along the beach.

There is a special beach for dogs.
Percy had a blast running on the sand and in the water.

We enjoyed the beach too

At night we had a relaxing campfire and marvelled at how many stars were in the sky.

Sunday August 31, 2008

We celebrated our 38th Anniversary by taking a long walk through the forest to the top of the mountain that overlooks the Lake.

The view from the top of Lookout Point was exhilarating

That evening we shared a campfire with the next door neighbours.

It was so nice at Neys that we decided to stay an extra day. It remained sunny but the wind kicked up and we thought we were back in Texas! Had to cancel the BBQ for tonight.

Tuesday September 2, 2008

We left Neys at 10 am and headed down Highway 17 west under hazy sun. The road was very twisty and windy but up until the construction near Nipigon the road was excellent.

Stopped just outside of Thunder Bay to view the Terry Fox Monument. The last time we were here they were moving the statue to its current position. We were quite impressed with the final result.

The likeness of is over 9 feet tall and captures the look of determination etched on Terry s face as he was straining to reach his goal.

At 3 pm we arrived at Happy Land Campground near Kakabeka Falls.

There was plenty of room for us here amongst the beautiful white Birch trees. They even have a dog trail through the woods.

Wednesday September 3, 2008

After doing the laundry we drove up to Kakabeka Provincial Park and took a look at the falls. According to the locals the water level is low but we were impressed with the view and the noise of the water.

We took a hike along the river.

Most of the walk was just trees and more trees, but there were a few lookouts with great views of the river or the falls.

Along the way Percy met some four legged friends
